SCIENCE CLUB

Voltak Vitlize

The NHS Science Club started on April 20, 2024, and the members of the club meet every Saturday to plan and work on the multiple projects decided by the club. The club consists of 31 students who love science and want to learn more. The club explored amniocentesis, a test that can diagnose genetic disorders during pregnancy. The club also discussed the importance of informed consent and how it affects people's attitudes towards disability. The club built Tesla Coils and watched as they created high-voltage electricity and cool plasma arcs. The members of the club also learnt about electromagnetic induction and resonance. The club also designed a model using electricity to split water into hydrogen and oxygen, a process called electrolysis. The model shows how this can be used in energy storage and fuel cells.

Overcoming Exam Anxiety: Tips from a Teacher

Examinations are an integral part of our academic journey, a crucial milestone that tests our knowledge, skills, and perseverance. All students have faced the thrill and nervousness of exams, and emerged stronger and wiser with each passing year."As your teacher, I want to remind you that exam pressure and stress are normal, but they don't have to overwhelm you. To manage them, focus on consistent effort, not just cramming. Break down your study material into smaller chunks, and take regular breaks to refresh your mind. Remember to breathe, exercise, and eat well - a healthy body supports a healthy mind! And most importantly, believe in yourself and your abilities. You've prepared well, and you're capable of achieving your goals. Stay positive by setting realistic goals and reminding yourself of past successes. Finally, seek support from friends, family, or teachers when needed. By balancing preparation and relaxation, you'll be well-equipped to handle exam stress and perform your best. If you need help or just someone to talk to, my door is always open."So, let us embrace examinations as a chance to showcase our abilities, learn from our mistakes, and move forward with confidence and determination. Remember, every exam is a step closer to achieving our dreams!
